“One of the most powerful and effective new memorials created in a generation.”

—The Washington Post

—The New York Times

The Legacy Pavilion serves as a welcome center for our Legacy Museum and the National Memorial for Peace and Justice. It includes free parking, our ticket office, gift shop, café, and exhibitions that help visitors engage with an often-overlooked history that has shaped Montgomery and the country as a whole. A Monument is also featured, memorializing over 2,000 black men, women and children who were lynched between 1865 and 1876.

The Legacy Museum
From Enslavement to Mass Incarceration

The Legacy Museum employs unique technology to tell the story of how slavery evolved through the eras of racial terror lynchings, legalized racial segregation, and mass incarceration. Visitors encounter a powerful sense of place when they enter the museum and confront slave pen replicas where they can see and hear first person accounts from enslaved people describing what it was like to be imprisoned awaiting sale at the nearby auction block. Extensive research and videography help visitors understand the racial terrorism of lynching and the humiliation of the Jim Crow South. These compelling visual and data-rich exhibits give visitors the opportunity to investigate America's history of racial injustice and its legacy, and to connect generations of Americans impacted by the narrative of racial difference.

THE NATIONAL MEMORIAL FOR PEACE AND JUSTICE

The National Memorial for Peace and Justice is the nation's first memorial dedicated to the legacy of enslaved black people, people terrorized by lynching, African Americans humiliated by racial segregation, and people of color burdened with contemporary presumptions of guilt and police violence. It is the manifestation of years of work by EJI to identify more than 4,000 African American men, women, and children who were lynched between 1877 and 1950. At the site's center hang over 800 steel monuments, one for each county in the United States where documented racial terror lynchings took place. The Memorial is a sacred space for truth-telling and reflection about racial terror in America and its legacy.

“True peace is not merely the absence of tension. It is the presence of justice.”

Located across the street from the Memorial, the Peace and Justice Memorial Center includes a gift shop and an auditorium where EJI staff offer presentations for visitors at 2:30 p.m. on Mondays, Thursdays, Fridays, and Saturdays. At the Center's entrance, a Monument commemorates 24 black men and women who were lynched or killed in racially motivated attacks during the 1950s.
